Running: Sport or Way of Life?

By Kelly Hashway

You flip through the channels for the fourth time and realize that once again there's nothing on television that grabs you. Not a problem! Throw on some running shoes and comfortable clothes and go for a run.

One of the coolest things about the sport of running is that you don't need expensive equipment. All you need is a good pair of running shoes and a safe environment. But just because you don't need much equipment don't be fooled into thinking the sport of running is easy. No one wakes up and decides to run a marathon without training. Running requires discipline, perseverance, and concentration. It's a sport that's good for your body and mind.

Running strengthens your heart, lungs, and muscles. It develops coordination and makes you more aware of your body. Running also gives you energy by increasing your oxygen intake, and it improves your immune system so you don't get sick as easily. It can even help you stay more focused in school because exercise helps you to think more clearly.

How do you get involved in the sport if you don't know much about it? Most schools offer cross-country and track programs, but there are also running clubs open to all ages. A simple internet search can help you find some in your area. The programs show you how running can offer competition or just be for fun. They also teach runners to set realistic goals and take care of their bodies.

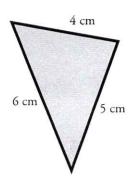

Runners have great respect for each other because they know how difficult the sport can be. If you go to a race, you'll see people cheering for all the runners, from the first place finisher to the last place finisher. Running isn't always about how fast you are or how far you're going. It's about getting out there and doing it. Participation is more important than competition, and effort is recognized over talent.

If you're looking for more than just a sport, running may be the perfect choice for you.

Caroline and the Castle

By Kelly Hashway

Caroline lived deep in the forest. In the forest there were enchanted fairies, ancient trees with arms, and talking woodland animals. Everything was magical in the forest, and Caroline was always happy there. Caroline's family lived in a tree house, high in the air, in this magical forest. The enchanted creatures of the forest all became friends with Caroline.

One day Caroline went on a walk with her family, and they came across a huge, stone castle. The castle was surrounded by trees higher than any she had ever seen! Her mother walked to the castle gates and knocked softly. When she did, the gates opened and revealed a beautiful rose garden. On the other side of the rose garden she could see beautifully painted windows and giant wooden doors to the castle.

Her mother and father led the way to the castle doors, carefully avoiding the overgrown rose bushes. When they reached the door, it opened to reveal a royal corridor. A beautiful queen appeared from a nearby room, and greeted them with a bow. After talking about the forest and how they got to the castle, the queen invited them to stay for dinner. A magnificent feast was prepared, and Caroline was most thrilled with the selection of desserts and cakes. She liked the chocolate truffles most.

After the royal feast, Caroline and her family bid their farewells and began the journey home. Caroline awoke in her bed the next day, wondering if it was all a dream.

"Rough day?" his mother asked.

"More like rough weekend. I have to finish my science fair project, help Carlos with the park clean-up, and help Chianne walk Mrs. Vanderhoof's dogs."

"Sounds like you agreed to too many things this weekend," his mother said.

"I know, but Carlos and Chianne are my friends. I couldn't say 'no' to them. I didn't want to let them down." Jared stared at his mom. "What should I do?"

"I'm glad you want to help your friends, but you need to have time for your own things, too."

Jared knew she was right. "Maybe I can tell Carlos I can only help for two hours in the morning. And I can probably help Chianne walk Mrs. Vanderhoof's dogs early in the morning, but not at lunchtime or in the evening." Jared's stomach flopped. "Mom, do you think they'll get mad?"

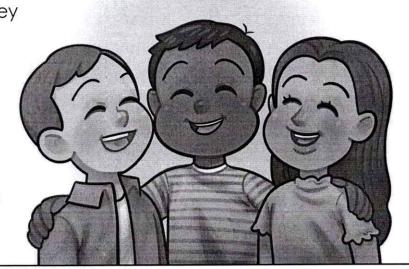

"They're your friends. Tell them you need time to finish your science fair project. They'll understand."

Jared nodded and got the phone. He told Carlos and Chianne the truth. As soon as he hung up, he turned to his mom.

"They're fine with it, and they both offered to help with my project, too."

"I knew it would work out," Mom said.

Jared smiled. "Yeah, because friends help each other out."

Jared put on his coat and backpack and walked out of school to catch his bus home.

His backpack weighed him down with all the materials he needed to finish his science fair project this weekend.

"Hey, Jared!" Carlos yelled, running up to him. "My dad's running the park clean-up this weekend. Can you help out?"

"Um..." Jared knew he didn't have time to help, but he didn't want to disappoint Carlos. "I guess I can."

"Great. Thanks!" Carlos said, waving goodbye.

Jared stepped onto the bus and took his seat. He was going to have to stay up late tonight to work on his project so he could help Carlos in the morning.

"Jared," Chianne said, sitting down next to him. "I've been looking for you. I have to walk Mrs. Vanderhoof's dogs this weekend. Do you think you could help me?"

"Um..." Jared knew Mrs. Vanderhoof's dogs had to be walked three times a day. How would he manage to fit that in on top of everything else? "I guess I can."

"Great!" Chianne waved goodbye as the bus pulled up to their stop.

Jared's backpack felt even heavier as he walked into the house and flopped down on the couch.
